

Rector's Letter - Rev'd Jeremy Trew - May 2022

Dear Friends,

I'm writing this in between preparing for our Easter services. This is the greatest of Christian festivals and one of the busiest times of year for clergy. Yes, we really are expected to work more than one day of the week. The cheek of it!

Looking out of my study window I can see the garden springing to life and hear the distant wail of a lawnmower calling its faithful to that regular summer ritual of holding back the tide of nature. It will be good not to have any major festivals for a few months and instead turn my attention to other tasks, even the garden.

It would be good, if that were the case, but it is not. During this month we mark the Ascension, the time when the risen Jesus ascended to the Father. Ascension is actually a hugely important event in the Christian story: Jesus is born at Christmas, dies and rises at Easter, and ascends at Ascension (obvious when you think about it).

For Christians its significance is that the story can now continue with a new chapter: Pentecost, and the birth of the Church, becomes possible. In these events the task that Jesus took upon himself in his teaching and serving is transferred to a new body of people, the Church, who are ordained by God to carry on that task until Jesus returns again.

The work of Jesus is, at least in theory, the work the Church tries to do today. Okay, sometimes we get it wrong, even disastrously so. More often we think that Sunday is the task of the Church, when actually it is our day off, the time when we gather together to be refreshed in our faith so that we can continue in God's work the rest of the week. Ultimately, the true meaning of this Christian faith is conveyed, not in our ceremonies and sermons, but in our daily living each day. That's a demanding task but one, as Ascension and Pentecost remind us, we do not struggle with alone.

Yours

Jeremy

Previous copies of our Rector's Letter

April 2022

March 2022

February 2022

Dec 2021 - Jan 2022

November 2021

October 2021

Aug-Sept 2021

June 2021

May 2021

April 2021